DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1 – 44, drawn to method of conducting commercial transactions in a network having an e-service layer, classified in class 705, subclass 1.
- II. Claims 45 and 46, drawn to method of conducting a business transaction between two persons enabling first person to enquire whether second person is capable of providing object derived by first person, classified in class 705, subclass 26.
- III. Claims 47 and 48, drawn to information technology network made up of group of computing entities having service layer, classified in class 709, subclass 200.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II & III are related as combination and subcombination.

Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because invention I drawn to method of conducting commercial transactions in a network having an e-service layer and enabling processing element to modify representative information whereas invention II does not enable processing to modify representative information, and, invention III drawn to information technology network made up of group of computing entities having service layer.

Inventions II and I & III are related as combination and subcombination.

Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because invention II drawn to method of conducting a business transaction between two persons enabling first person to enquire whether second person is capable of providing object derived by first person whereas Invention I method of conducting commercial transactions in a network having an e-service layer and enabling processing element to modify representative information, and, invention III drawn to information technology network made up of group of computing entities having service layer.

Inventions III and I & II are related as combination and subcombination.

Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because invention III drawn to information technology network made up of group of computing entities having service layer, whereas invention I is drawn to method of conducting a business transaction between two persons enabling first person to enquire whether second person is capable of providing object derived by first person, and, Invention I method of conducting commercial transactions in a network having an e-service layer and enabling processing element to modify representative information.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for either Group is not required for other Groups, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention. For example:

Claims 1 – 22 drawn to a method of conducting commercial transactions in a public information technology network which stores the reference identifier in a memory associated with the e-service layer in a manner which enables the reference identifier to be linked to the commercial object to which the reference identifier relates, whereas, claims 23 – 44 drawn to method conducting commercial transactions in a public information technology network which stores the reference identifier in a memory associated with the e-service layer in a manner which enables the details of the second processing element to be retrieved from the e-service layer using the reference identifier.

Claim 2 drawn to method wherein the reference identifier is assigned before initiating the first commercial transaction, whereas, claim 3 is drawn to a method wherein the reference identifier is assigned after initiating the first commercial transaction.

Claim 4 drawn to method wherein the reference identifier is assigned by the first processing element, whereas, claim 5 is drawn to a method wherein the reference identifier is assigned by the second processing element.

Claim 24 drawn to method wherein the reference identifier is assigned before initiating the first commercial transaction, whereas, claim 25 is drawn to a method wherein the reference identifier is assigned after initiating the first commercial transaction.

Claim 26 drawn to method wherein the reference identifier is assigned by the first processing element, whereas, claim 27 is drawn to a method wherein the reference identifier is assigned by the second processing element.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Art Unit: 3629

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
